I've taken the Badger several times and appreciate both the history and the convenience of this ferry. Much as I sympathize with the owners and want the service to continue, however, it's time for the Badger to adapt or go. We simply can't afford to continue polluting Lake Michigan like this - we're facing decades, if not centuries, of drought; continued assaults by invasive species; greater demand on our water resources generally; and ever-increasing population, which exacerbates all the other issues. If the Badger can't operate without dumping coal ash into the Lake, it has to stop operating. The owners of the S.S. Badger have had more than enough time to clean up their act and stop dumping coal ash in Lake Michigan. CREDO is absolutely wrong with its petition. U.S. Senator Durbin is fighting the S.S. Badger because he doesn't want people to look at the Asian Carp problem that is a result of his blockage of disconnected the Chicago River from the Great Lakes ecosystem. If CREDO and Durbin were really interested in saving Lake Michigan (and the entire Great Lake ecosystem), they would stop trying to shut down the Badger and its benign discharge (which will be eliminated in two years anyway) and address the real threat...Asian Carp from the Mississippi River drainage to Lake Michigan through the Chicago River canal.

While I do not like the coal ash dumping into Lake Michigan I realize that the factors involved in this situation are not that simple. I have taken the Badger numerous times between Michigan and Wisconsin and know that it provides a much more direct route than driving down around Chicago or thru the UP for not only many individuals but big trucks and many companies including those trying to transport large wind turbine blades, not to mention the historic value of the Badger. That said I would hope that there would be a way to convert its coal power to some other power source for the Badger to keep running but be environmentally more responsible.

I live in Milwaukee - and this is my drinking water we're talking about. It isn't like coal ash from the Badger is the only source of contaminants here, but as an obvious and ongoing source of over a million pounds of it annually, business as usual should not be allowed to continue. If after being given four years to correct the problem, Lake Michigan Carferry hasn't found a way to operate without dumping ash into the lake, what's going to be different after two more years. other than another couple million pounds of toxic ash in the chain of lakes which holds over 20% of the world's fresh water? I have friends across the lake in Michigan, and understand the value and fun of having a car ferry option in place. There even may be some positive impact on air quality if many cars can skip the long drive around the south end of the lake, but unless a cleaner way can be found to operate the Badger, it's time for it to retire ASAP. The owners of the S.S. Badger have had more than enough time to clean up their act and stop dumping coal ash in Lake Michigan. Allowing the company to continue dumping toxic coal ash in Lake Michigan is totally unacceptable. I urge you to reject the proposed consent decree and stop the S.S. Department of Justice, please halt the coal ash emissions from the SS Badger into Lake Michigan. This ship is known as the filthiest ship in the Great Lakes. For 60 years it has been dumping more than a million lbs of these toxins into the lake each year. Enough is enough! The people and wildlife of Michigan deserve clean water. We need an EPA with backbone, unafraid to do their job of protecting the environment and standing up to the industrial polluters. Lake Michigan Carferry, owners of the SS Badger, was ordered to stop polluting the waters years ago. This needs to be enforced. They must not be given two more years to ruin our water. Our taxes are paying the EPA. Our taxes will have to clean up the Badger's pollution. The SS Badger must not be allowed to ruin our Great Lakes and our children's future.

I moved next to Lake Michigan in the early 40's when I was a child. I am now 77. At that time the beach was so clean that after working in the fields, my sister and I would run into the lake for a fresh bath. Now our beach is thick with slime and smells awful. I crossed Lake Michigan on a carferry out of Kewaukee as a child and loved the trip, but we need to clean up the lake again and bring it back to it's beauty. So please force any company that puts things into our lake to clean up their act SOON. Virginia Socwell

As a Michigander I am appalled that this has been allowed to go on for so long. We here in the Great Lakes state love our waterways, and millions of people here and in the surrounding states depend on them for our drinking water and livelihoods. Please do not allow the profit of a single corporation (or any, for that matter) to outweigh the needs of millions of Americans!

Senator Durbin's campaign against the Badger is wrong headed and flat out wrong! His ash numbers are grossly exaggerated. Beyond that the man doing a lot of fund raising for him owns the competing service Lake Express and expects to profit from putting LMC out of business. Sheldon Lubar who also owns Savory Energies is trying to frack drill in Michigan state forests has also been using Durbin to block stimulus and other grants that would have solved the problem long ago! How about a little funding to help her convert Senator?

Coal ash contains mercury, arsenic, and lead in quantities that vary depending on the coal being burned. Coal ash can be safely utilized or disposed of in concrete or landfills that avoid the leeching of these toxic elements into the water table. However, dumping coal ash directly into lake Michigan is the worst possible way to handle coal ash. The owners of the S.S. Badger have had more than enough time to clean up their act and stop dumping coal ash in Lake Michigan. Allowing the company to continue dumping toxic coal ash in Lake Michigan is totally unacceptable. I urge you to reject the proposed consent decree and stop the S.S. Badger from dumping any more coal ash into our lake. There are other propulsion options for the SS Badger such as compressed Natural Gas which could greatly reduce the environmental impact of the ship.

However if the SS Badger is given a free pass to continue dumping coal ash, there is no incentive for them to clean up their act. Please reject any option that allows the SS Badger to continue dumping coal ash into Lake Michigan.

Depending on where the coal was mined, coal ash typically contains heavy metals including arsenic, lead, mercury, cadmium, chromium and selenium, as well as aluminum, antimony, barium, beryllium, boron, chlorine, cobalt, manganese, molybdenum, nickel, thallium, vanadium, and zinc.<sup>i</sup> How dangerous is coal ash to humans? The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has found that living next to a coal ash disposal site can increase your risk of cancer or other diseases. If you live near an unlined wet ash pond (surface impoundment) and you get your drinking water from a well, you may have as much as a 1 in 50 chance of getting cancer from drinking arsenic-contaminated water. If eaten, drunk or inhaled, these toxicants can cause cancer and nervous system impacts such as cognitive deficits, developmental delays and behavioral problems. They can also cause heart damage, lung disease, respiratory distress, kidney disease, reproductive problems, gastrointestinal illness, birth defects, and impaired bone growth in children. The EPA estimates that 140 million tons of coal ash are generated annually. Arsenic is one of the most common, and most dangerous, pollutants from coal ash. The EPA also found that living near ash ponds increases the risk of damage from cadmium, lead, and other toxic metals.

Badger have had four years to figure out a way to clean up their act. Unfortunately they would rather bully the EPA and let down an entire town and it's economy, the lives of many people dependent on the running of the Badger, than fix their dumping problem. If the S.. Badger's owners cared about the people who depend on the Badger and the town that depends on it they would have spent their down time trying to fix their toxic waste problem.

So if you take what we have and continue to pollute what's going to be there in the future? Are we that stupid to continue to let companies pollute? You can't tell me you guys are dumb! Are you. I would appreciate your answering this comment I am sending you. PLEASE. Jacquey Shellenbarger jacs1944@gmail.com

I have lived in Michigan all my life and love this state and all it's lakes and have done my personal best to protect and remove debris when and where ever I see it. I don't understand what the E.P.A.'s problem is other than receiving money from companies that want to bypass the laws instead of doing what is mandated to protect our waters especially one of the largest fresh water lakes in the world. If the E.P.A. doesn't want to do there job and make the tough decisions then those in charge need to find a menial job at say Walmart where there pour decision making won't effect our lakes and environment. I know if they found a candy wrapper that blew off my pontoon boat they wouldn't hesitate to ticket me, and make a federal case out of it. Do your over paid jobs E.P.A. or go find something else that doesn't effect our waters, environment and planet!

I truly love the old SS Badger and have sailed on it many times during the past 25 to 30 years. I am disappointed that its owners have not take the pollution problems it presents to our Great Lakes more seriously, so that they can be addressed in a timely manner. The tourist industry for the city of Ludington, Mi. and Manitowac, Wi, and their surrounding areas as well as the legacy of this beloved historical ship have been put at risk due to problems not being solved. I hope there can be a resolution that will protect the Great Lakes and take all concerns into consideration. I hope to be able to sail on a revamped green, clean, historical SS Badger.

In 2008, the ship's owners were given a December 2012 deadline for finding a way to operate their ship without polluting Lake Michigan. But now that the deadline has passed, the EPA has backed down and proposed a sweetheart deal that would allow the S.S. Badger to continue fouling Lake Michigan for the next two years. That is a very bad decision that is completely unacceptable! The owners of the S.S. Badger have had more than enough time to clean up their act and stop dumping coal ash in Lake Michigan. Five years ago, in 2008, the S.S. Badger's owners were given four years to find a way to operate their ship without polluting Lake Michigan. Rather than do so, they've simply demanded a two-year extension of their "right" to continue polluting Lake Michigan to the tune of more than one million pounds each year. There is no reason to allow them this extension. Reject S.S. Badger's extension today! The owners of the S.S. Having said that, I realize that this ferry line between Wisconsin and Michigan is absolutely vital to the people (local and tourists) and economy of Wisconsin, Michigan and even Illinois. Shame on Lake Michigan Carferry in holding everyone else hostage, so to speak, on this issue! And if L. M. Carferry actually shuts down operations in protest, I would urge the governors and legislatures of Wisconsin and/or Michigan and/or Congress to nationalize that ferry route!

Please stop dumping coal ash into Lake Michigan. I appreciate the history of this ship and in the past enjoyed a couple of crossings with my family. During one of these I happened to look down in the water as they were making one of these dumps. It was appalling to see this stuff completely discoloring the water! They were given a four year window to solve this problem but chose to instead, spend their money and effort in trying to circumvent the law by various political tactics. It just can't be that hard to convert the boiler to natural gas or dispose the ash in a responsible manner. Russell Wagner The owners of the S.S. The law should apply to everybody. If the SS Badger can pollute the water, then maybe I should just quit using my septic and send my toilet waste direct into the Fox River. After all, I live next to the river. Why not? Oh, because it is illegal, and because poisoning the water for all who swim in it or eat fish from it, or rely upon it for a water supply is wrong. That should be enough. Send the owner of the SS Badger to jail just like you would me if I was polluting the water. The owners of the S.S. There is only one thing we need to dump on Lake Michigan, it is the coal burning Badger. It used to be fun to ride and amazing to see, all that smoke pouring from steam engine Smoke stacks. It was only 40+ years ago when I first saw it sail. Add up all that pollution from years ago and I am suprised only 1 of two males get cancer and 3 of five women get cancer today. You know we drink this water as our main source. Maybe they should pay for our Cancer hospital bills because of being such a present day polluter. If you want to fight Cancer and other toxic horn diseases Dump the Badger. I am sorry to say the time has come. The owners of the S.S. Badger, the filthiest ship on the Great Lakes, has been given two more years to dump hundreds of tons of dangerous coal ash into Lake Michigan. The millions of people who live, work and play in and around this beautiful Lake should be outraged that this filthy ship will continue to operate." As defender of "WE the People," YOU must hold the operating company to the law! They should be FINED, not given permission to ignore an ORDER given and already ignored by them!!!!

Unless we stop now, it will be too late to turn things around on this planet, if it's not too late already. Can you sleep at night, knowing your actions, or inactions, are robbing the children of their rightful place here? Doesn't the death of animals and destruction of habitat affect you, at all? If not, I suggest you plan your next vacation around visiting a dump and enjoy the view, maybe then you will wake up. Breathe deep and know what the stench of greed and ignorance smells like. Then go to a natural area and decide which place you enjoyed more. The owners of the S.S. Badger have had more than enough time to clean up their act and stop dumping coal ash in Lake Michigan. Allowing the company to continue dumping toxic coal ash in Lake Michigan is totally unacceptable. I urge you to reject the proposed consent decree and stop the S.S. Badger from dumping any more coal ash into our lake. Millions of people draw their drinking water from Lake Michigan. Even a Great Lake eventually builds to toxic levels of contamination when constantly used as a dumping ground for toxic materials. The toxins do disappear or become less poisonous in the lake, they are merely diluted and spread throughout the lake, polluting all the water rather than just the dumping site. This allows everyone whose drinking water comes from the lake an equal chance in the cancer lottery from these toxins.

Allowing the company to continue dumping toxic coal ash in Lake Michigan is totally unacceptable. I urge you to reject the proposed consent decree and stop the S.S. Badger from dumping any more coal ash into our lake. Personally, as a child, my family used to spend time near my grandparent's house at the beach in Ludington MI where we'd wave to the people arriving on the SS Badger and listen to the horn as it arrived. Several years ago, we carried my father's ashes across the lake riding on the SS Badger to take him back to Michigan. If I had known then what I know now, I wouldn't have supported the Badger or waved at them gleefully as a child. Recently, our local community in Lake County IL is spending millions of dollars to connect our water supply to lake michigan. I expressed concern at the public meeting about the effect of toxic coal ash on our water, and they assured me that it would be filtered. I don't trust that at all, as I have suffered with fibromyalgia since I was a child. As a scientist, I have spent a lifetime looking for medical cures, but doctors had no answers, and cost me thousands of dollars in medical bills. Only recently did I learn that I have mercury poisoning which has caused lifelong suffering for me, and degraded the quality of life for me and my family. I'm now being treated for mercury poisoning, and hope to have a full recovery after 40 years of suffering. There should be no excuses when big business makes a profit at the expense of every American's health. Americans reap no profit from dirty coal, and we should not be the ones to pay for their greed. Please end this abuse of our water, land and air. Put an end to dirty coal and toxic coal ash dumping. The SS Badger can be a museum at a dock in Sheboygan or Ludington MI. It should not be poisoning our environment any longer. Please dock the SS Badger.

Dear DoJ: This is a VERY straightfoward scenario with only ONE correct answer: immediately STOP dumping ANYTHING TOXIC or bad in our drinking water!! The Great Lakes are 1/5 of the WORLD'S FRESH WATER SUPPLY! If you let them continue, then both of you (the DoJ decision-making body and ALL the members of the S.S. Badger)should drink the water right from the location of the latest dump! If you don't want your family and friends to drink toxic water, then don't be an IDIOT: cease this nonsense immediately! REALLY?!? Do we REALLY need to tell you people this?!? The owners of the S.S. Badger have had more than enough time to clean up their act and stop dumping coal ash in Lake Michigan. I live in the Southwest suburbs of Chicago. Our drinking water comes from Lake Michigan. The argument that the S.S. Badger is an "historic" ship and should have an exemption doesn't hold water. Should we go back to leaded gasoline, too? It's time to put our environment and our children ahead of corporate interests. The owners of the S.S. What kind of "sweetheart deal" was given this company and is someone getting a payoff? I have lived near Lake Michigan all my life and I'm appalled that this company has been getting away w/this filthy, polluting practice for so long. Take the company's ship off the Lake until they find a solution to stop polluting one of our Great Lakes! Another alternative needs to be found to protect our Lake's integrity. Please stop this now!

I am 24 years old. For years, I have swum in Lake Michigan nearly every warm day - and many nights. People tell me that I shouldn't swim somewhere so dirty. I tell them that to live by that beautiful water and not be able to swim in it is criminal and outrageous. That lakeshore is one of the few places in the city where people break the rigid boundaries of segregation and enjoy each others' company and the gift of that city. If you allow this water to become even more polluted, what will happen to me and to the many other young people like me who depend on this source of peace? It should be criminal to destroy something so precious to so many.
