

Bibliography of Biodiesel Studies

September 19, 2001

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
Office of Transportation and Air Quality

The following is a list of studies that have been considered for inclusion in an EPA database. The studies have been identified through a search of the available literature. The database will be used as the basis of analyses intended to estimate how the use of biodiesel affects emissions of pollutants such as NO_x, particulate matter (PM), hydrocarbons (HC), and CO. For more information on this effort, visit our Website at:
